

Prof. Susanne Stenbacka, Uppsala University

Blue light in green surroundings: Challenges and opportunities for emergency and rescue services in rural Sweden

Taking the point of departure in the research project with the same title, Prof Susanne Stenbacka will present recent findings from this project and reflect on their relevance for rural policy and development strategies. She will also elaborate on how this investigation of rural emergency and rescue services relate to other strands of Swedish rural research. The project is financed by FORMAS, A Swedish Research Council for Sustainable Development.